

Reading Homework Activities

Fiction Activities

Pick 1

Be sure your name, the number of your activity, the book's title, and the author's name are written on your paper.

Draw a comic strip showing an important scene from the book. Show character's thoughts and dialogue.

Write a one-minute radio commercial.

Write a newspaper review of the book. Remember your audience will be many different types of people!

Write a song to a familiar tune (like "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star") about your book. Perform it for the class.

Imagine that you are going to interview the main character. Write 5 questions you would ask him/her.

Design a Facebook page for the main character with a picture, profile, groups he/she belongs to, and posts from other characters in the book.

Write a diary or journal entry from the point of view of a character in the book during an important part of the story.

Make a list of 10 new, unusual, or interesting words or phrases found in your book and the meanings of each one.

Reading Homework Activities

Non-Fiction Activities

Pick 1

Be sure your name, the number of your activity, the book's title, and the author's name are written on your paper.

1

Create a glossary of 5-7 important words from the book. Include a definition for each, and a picture if you can.

2

Create a graphic organizer/thinking map, that shows the main

3

Draw a diagram that illustrates an important concept from the book. Label the parts of the diagram.

4

Create a Power Point/Google Slides presentation about the topic of your book. Include at least 6 Slides of information.

5

Create a pamphlet or brochure summarizing the important details from your book.

6

Create a flow map that shows a series of events from your book, or steps that explain how something works.

7

Create a timeline showing important events from your book. For each event, write a sentence or draw a small illustration to show what you learned.

8

Write a rap song about one of the concepts you learned about in the book. Perform it for the class!